

MEDIA CONTACTS:

Syd Steinhardt | 212.998.7262 | syd.steinhardt@nyu.edu

Cheryl Feliciano | 212.992.9103 | cheryl.feliciano@nyu.edu

Fact Sheet

New York University School of Continuing and Professional Studies

Founded in 1934, the School of Continuing and Professional Studies (NYU-SCPS) is among the 18 colleges and schools that comprise New York University, one of the largest private research universities in the United States and the first Global Network University.

Through its faculty, curricula, and vibrant professional and academic networks, NYU-SCPS captures the expertise of key sectors where New York leads globally:

- Real Estate, Construction Management, and Real Estate Development
- Hospitality, Tourism, and Sports Management
- Global Affairs
- Philanthropy and Fundraising
- Design, Digital Arts, Film, Video, and Broadcasting
- Graphic Communications and Publishing
- Integrated Marketing and Public Relations
- Information Technology and Management Systems
- Finance, Business, Leadership, and Human Capital Management
- Liberal Studies and Allied Arts

Rigorous and timely programs in these and related areas attract full-time undergraduate and graduate students immersed in university life, professionals in 15 graduate programs, motivated adults earning undergraduate degrees (through the Paul McGhee Division), and individuals of all backgrounds enrolled in approximately 2,500 noncredit education courses, approximately 100 certificate programs, conferences, and seminars annually.

FAST FACTS

Founded in 1934, NYU-SCPS is one of the country's oldest and largest schools of its kind for lifelong learners.

During the 2009-2010 academic year, the School had about 30,000 continuing education students, 2,033 undergraduates, and 2,776 graduate students. The School's community is enriched by 25,000 degree-holding alumni worldwide, many of whom serve as mentors, guest speakers, and advisory board members.

NYU-SCPS offers 15 master's degree programs, 12 graduate certificates, one diploma program, and a range of undergraduate degree programs—all designed to cultivate specialized career aspirations.

NYU-SCPS courses are conveniently scheduled on weekdays during daytime and evening hours and on weekends throughout the year. The School is anchored across three main Manhattan locales: the core NYU campus in Greenwich Village (at 7 East 12th Street), Midtown (at 11 West 42nd Street), and Downtown (at the Woolworth Building, 15 Barclay Street). Further, a number of degree and certificate programs as well as credit and noncredit courses are offered through the School's distance-learning platform, NYU-SCPS Online.

ORGANIZATION

NYU-SCPS is organized around several academic divisions and centers:

- Liberal Studies and Allied Arts
 - Offers the Master of Science in Translation and continuing education courses and certificate programs in Foreign Languages, Translation, and Interpreting
 - Continuing education courses and certificate programs in the Arts, Humanities and Performing Arts; Writing and Speech; Design and Digital Arts; Film, Video, and Broadcasting; and Career Planning
 - The American Language Institute (ALI), which provides a comprehensive program of English language instruction and evaluation for non-native English speaking students

- Division of Programs in Business
 - Offers Master of Science degree programs in Management and Systems; Integrated Marketing; Human Resource Management and Development; and Public Relations and Corporate Communication
 - Continuing education courses and professional certificates in Marketing, Public Relations, Human Resources, Finance, Accounting, Taxation, Law, Management, Coaching, Leadership, and Information Technologies

- The Center for Global Affairs
 - Offers the Master of Science in Global Affairs,
 - Continuing education courses and professional certificates in Global Affairs and Global Philanthropy

- The Preston Robert Tisch Center for Hospitality, Tourism, and Sports Management
 - Home to three Master of Science programs in Hospitality Industry Studies, Tourism Management, and Sports Business—with three correlating graduate certificates
 - As well, the Center offers two Bachelor of Science degrees—designed for the traditionally-aged high school graduate—in Hotel and Tourism Management, and Sports Management
 - Hosts the annual NYU International Hospitality Industry Conference

- The Paul McGhee Division
 - McGhee is for adult students who want to complete their undergraduate degrees, offering associate and bachelor’s degrees in the liberal arts, social sciences, and numerous professional fields

- Division for Media Industry Studies and Design
 - Home to the Master of Science in Publishing and Master of Arts in Graphic Communications Management and Technology programs
 - Continuing education courses and certificate programs in Publishing, the Summer Publishing Institute, and an Executive Education Series in Publishing at NYU Abu Dhabi

- The George H. Heyman, Jr. Center for Philanthropy and Fundraising
 - Offers the Master of Science in Fundraising and Grantmaking
 - Continuing education courses and certificate programs in Philanthropy, Fundraising, Global Philanthropy, and Grantmaking and Foundations

- The NYU Schack Institute of Real Estate
 - Offers three Master of Science programs in Real Estate, Construction Management, and Real Estate Development; professional certificates; and continuing education courses
 - Home to the REIT Center and the new Center for the Sustainable Built Environment
 - Hosts key industry conferences, including the annual REIT Symposium, Capital Markets Conference, and the Annual Sustainable Real Estate Conference

The School’s website is scps.nyu.edu.